

Good afternoon everyone,

Reviewing provision

We are at the end of week 2 of our new phase of provision, and as promised we will be reviewing in detail over the coming days a number of our systems to enable us to maximise what provision we can give for the last few weeks of term. We have had a lot of enquiries for places and have a large list of families hoping for even a little provision. We know from our phone calls the pressure many families are under, and to have received a mutual understanding from you regarding the challenges that school faces in order to be utterly rigorous about the health and safety of everyone in the building is reassuring. Thank you for that patience and kindness. We are also reviewing our home learning across school, and I am sure you will notice some tweaks to practice across school over the coming weeks.

School Reports

Our teachers are writing end of year reports at present. These are based upon the attendance up to lockdown and take account of learning up to that point and areas for development for next year. As you would expect, it is impossible to grade pupils attainment against end of year group expectations this year. Therefore you will see teachers have given a grade for effort along with the comments.

Part of our annual report process usually includes the children writing a self review report too. We wanted to make sure that each child had the chance to do this if they want to. Class teachers sent the document into the children's google classrooms last week and many children have started completing them. If you would like it to be added to your child's report then please have it finished by lunchtime on Friday 26th June (next Friday) when we will print it out. There is no pressure to complete this exercise, and you can always print it at a later date at home if the deadline is missed.

Wellbeing

As always, wellbeing is high on the agenda at RWPA and attached is our latest wellbeing letter from our wellbeing team. The mindfulness section in particular is very pertinent at this present time. It reminds us to accept that we won't always have the answers for everything and that letting go of anxiety is extremely important for our health.

National Sports Week

A link was sent out this week for National Sports Week. There is a link below, If you are a parent or carer they will provide you with free and easy-to-use resources including videos to help plan your week of activities, set challenges for your families, friends and neighbours, and shout about it online. So join in the fun and keep active!! We will certainly be checking out some of these things next week too.
